In January, we changed our name from Minnesota International Health Volunteers to WellShare International to better reflect the community-based health and outreach services we provide worldwide.

Here is just a sample of the ways we saved and improved lives, empowered communities through partnership and education, and provided a critical link between communities and the health care system in 2010:

- We fought malaria in Uganda by partnering to distribute over 100,000 insecticide-treated nets and nearly quadrupled the number of babies and toddlers sleeping under nets at night in seven districts.
- We fought cholera in Tanzania by bringing an intensive hygiene and sanitation intervention to Karatu District. Over 1,000 new latrines were built in the eight project villages, hand washing increased from 52% to 90%, and household water purification increased from 48% to 93%.
- We engaged 53 of Minnesota’s Somali youth to spread health messages to over 400 people in their community using creative arts. 100% of the Somali youth graduated from high school and went on to college or another post-secondary option.
- We reached over 100,000 people in Tanzania with education about healthy pregnancies and well-child care, family planning, and disease prevention.
- We visited Somali elders in their Twin Cities homes and provided them with education and resources to connect with Minnesota’s health care system.
- We educated nearly 300 community caregivers in Uganda to provide HIV prevention education and resources to over 4,000 people and provided home-based health services to nearly 4,000 orphans and people living with HIV/AIDS in the Central Region.
- We reached over 1,000 Minnesota health service workers and Somali community members with culturally appropriate family planning information and resources.

We look forward to continuing this great work. Please visit wellshareinternational.org to keep up with our programs, subscribe to our e-newsletter, and help us change lives.
2010 was a big year for WellShare International. We continued to provide high-quality, innovative solutions to improve the wellbeing of families around the world—please read the highlights to the left to see the kind of difference we made in Uganda, Tanzania, and Minnesota.

Nuru’s story is a wonderful example of the way our work truly changes lives. In November 2007, Nuru—a 46-year-old mother living in Mubende, Uganda—visited her district health center and received the heartbreaking news that she was HIV positive. Her health deteriorated until she was unable to work, walk, or care for herself. Lacking information about the steps she could take to manage her illness and live a full life, Nuru resigned herself to waiting for death.

That is, until Nampiima paid her a visit. Nampiima is a WellShare-trained community caregiver who provides home-based care and support services as part of the USAID-funded Partnering for Positive Livelihoods Program, implemented by WellShare and our local partner, Kassanda Cornerstone Foundation.

Nampiima’s warm approach comforted Nuru while she learned the essentials of positive living: good hygiene, eating a balanced diet, and taking medicine regularly. Nuru hadn’t known how to access the drugs she needed, so Nampiima connected her to septrin treatment and persistently followed up with Nuru to make sure she was taking the drugs. In Nuru’s words: “In six weeks, life began to return. Today I walk and work normally. I am much happier. How did this happen? Someone out there reached out to me.”

We at WellShare are proud of our over 30 years of life-saving work like this around the world, and we are looking forward to many more years of working within communities to develop and implement innovative solutions that reduce barriers to health. We thank you for your ongoing support of our work.

Warm regards,

Diana DuBois, MPH, MIA
